WHAT THEY DID AT CITY COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT

Many Things Of Routine Nature Disposed Of—Payment Of Delinquent Plumbing Permits Evokes Discussion

With all members present and Mayor Selmi presiding, the Daly City Council convened in regular session Monday evening of this week, and transacted the usual run of routine business. The city clerk, city attorney and assistant city engineer were also present.

Ida K. Wall submitted a letter in which she complained of bills for assessment for weed removal from property from which they already had been removed by the owner. Complaint was also made along the same line by Mrs. C. E. Squires. The error was ordered corrected in both instances.

Gordon Rowe, public accountant employed to audit books of city departments, reported the current quarterly audit had been completed. His force is now working on an audit of accounts of the city water department and on the city budget for the coming year, it was stated.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company asked permission to install an underground conduit at San Pedro road and Washington street, and also an anchor for a pole in that vicinity. The city engineer was instructed to supervise the installations.

The Union Paving Company made demand for payment of $26, claimed

SAFE DRIVING BEST IN END

Congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Motorist.—The efforts made by the various organizations and individuals to help the driving public keep the number of traffic accidents at a minimum during the last week-end were eminently successful, and demonstrated that when people are actually safety-conscious when driving their automobiles, the number of accidents can be greatly reduced.

The calendar issued by the National Safety Council for the ensuing year shows, for the month of November, a puritan family offering thanks at the feast. We submit as a thought for this Thanksgiving week, the caption appearing with the picture: "And we thank Thee for Thy Guiding Spirit which has kept us safe and sound."—San Mateo Traffic Safety Commission.

Declares War On Berry Pickers

Anticipating the holiday season, Fire Warden Bert Werder, Monday of this week, declared war on commercial pickers who yearly denude San Mateo County of Tyon berries, holly, and tender branches of young redwood threes for Christmas wreathes and streamers.

"There is a tremendous market for these things, and commercial interest are willing to take great risks to get their material," he said.

"We are on the lookout, and we have the cooperation of the highway patrol. As soon as we spot any truckloads of greens leaving the county, we will take immediate action."

According to Werder, commercial groups are the worst offenders, trespassing without regard of the owners of the property or for the law.

Fine Opportunity To Finish the Job

At the regular meeting of the Daly City Council, Mon day evening of this week, there was delivered an agreement, which virtually amountd to an option on a parcel of land at Brunswick and Acton streets.

The property is 94 by 204 feet in area, and is considered a desirable acquisition for a park and playground site.

The owners of the parcel agreed to allow the city to purchase the piece, consisting of eight lots of 25-foot frontage, at any time within 30 days from November 10, 1937, for a stipulated price of $6000, or $750 per lot, provided the entire tract is taken.

At the next regular meeting of the council an effort will be made to find some way in which the acquisition of this land can be accomplished in the near future, possibly with some aid from the federal government.

If secured, this will be the first link for the proposed playground and park system for our community, a long needed improvement and one which will prove of inestimable benefit and value to the comfort and welfare of our citizens.

It is the intention of the members of the council to acquire a number of sites in the future, as soon as practicable. When available locations are secured it is intended to erect on these parcels of land tennis and handball and basketball courts for the elders and other playground equipment—such as swings, sliding pits, etc., for the smaller youngsters. These activities will all be supervised by competent instructors.

All progressive citizens have long recognized the imperative and urgent need for improvements of this nature and it is to be hoped that means will be found to carry the project to an ultimate conclusion in the near future.

SEABISCUIT NOW QUARTERED AT HOME COURSE

Big Query Seems To Be Just How Good Is Thoroughbred Compared To Others

Seabiscuit, America's leading money-winner of 1937, today is safely stabled at Tanforan. He headed the 19-horse cavalcade of Charles S. Howard, San Francisco sportsman, which arrived in two divisions. The main string shipped from Maryland, while six new Argentine horses, three of them owned jointly by Bing Crosby and Lin Howard, came from New York, joining the first division at Chicago.

Highlights of the arrival were:

Seabiscuit was pawing in his stall, fresh and anxious to get unloaded. He stood the long ship perfectly and looked fit enough to set a track record today.

"We had a fine trip," Trainer Tom Smith said. "The horses shipped well and Seabiscuit is in great shape. He thrives on racing and we intend to run him at Tanforan in the San Francisco Handicap, December 18th."

Owner Howard hovered about Seabiscuit's stall (the Biscuit had one end of a car to himself) and petted the star which cost $8,000 and to date

Fire, Monday of this week, destroyed a large portion of the Petersburg, Alaska, waterfront, with a loss estimated at $150,000.

ALLEGED EFFORT AT CURTAILMENT RUNS INTO SNAG

Attempt To Consolidate The County Departments Meets With Strenuous Opposition —Court Threat Made

At the meeting of the County Board of Supervisors, Wednesday of this week, an ordinance was presented by County Manager E. A. Rolison calling for the consolidation of Purchasing Agent Stanley Kelly's office with that of Rolison was adopted by the board.

In effect, adoption of the ordinance means that Kelly, a $35,500 a year official, will be ousted within 30 days and his duties taken over by Rolison.

Rolison stated to the supervisors he had come to the conclusion such a move was in the "interest of the public and would effect economies."

The alleged effort at curtailment and economy met with a sour note from the official sought to be eliminated by the action of the county executive and Board of Supervisors.

Joseph J. Bullock, representing Kelly before the supervisors, unsuccessfully attempted to delay passage of the ordinance. After adoption of the ordinance the attorney sounded this ominous warning to the board:

"Now you are going to have a lawsuit on your hands."

Kelly's appointment as purchasing agent was to have expired in 1939.

Kelly, in his review of the case, branded the move as "purely politics."

OUR POLICY IS RESTATED

Complaints reach the editor from time to time that certain items called "news" have been omitted from these columns.

The policy of The Record will be that no happening that has transpired more than ten days in the past will be printed.

For instance any happening from Wednesday up until Saturday evening of the week before publication on Friday must be in this office not later than Monday afternoon of the week of publication. Those happenings from Saturday until Wednesday noon, must be in by that time—Wednesday noon for publication on Friday.

The dead line is Wednesday afternoon on anything occurring up to Wednesday noon from the Saturday before, unless exception is deemed expedient for some good reason.

For instance, a party held on June 21 is not news if handed in on July 3. Also, if it happened two or three weeks ago, it has no news value.

Help Stop This Awful Condition

If the graves of the traffic victims killed in California during the five years ending last January were placed end to end they would stretch for seventeen miles.

This is the graphic message being carried throughout the state in a series of safety talks by George Rochester of Los Angeles, deputy director of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Mr. Rochester said:

"This message, I admit, is gruesome, but if its constant repetition throughout the state encourages safety, and sanity, in driving on the highways then it is serving a worthy purpose.

"It is our intention to make this symbolic boulevard of death a 'dead end' street, so that it will not stretch out for mile after mile with increasing traffic fatalities.

"Working under the leadership and inspiration of Director Ray Ingels of the Department of Motor Vehicles every attache of the department is doing his best to promote safety on the highways of California."

Warning Issued To Careless Drivers

Zealous of the safety of the children entrusted to her care a woman school bus driver in the Sacramento area has turned over to the Department of Motor Vehicles a list of twenty-one license numbers on automobiles which she charges failed to stop while her bus was loading and unloading passengers.

Warnings have been sent to the owners of the reported machines, calling their attention to the bus driver's allegations and citing the fact that it is mandatory on all cars to stop when overtaking a school bus loading or discharging passengers.

The director of the Department of Motor Vehicles, commending the woman bus driver said:

"Every motorist should appreciate the rsponsibility of protecting the occupants of the school buses and motorists who ignore their responsibility are subject to arrest by officers of the California Highway Patrol.

"In reporting violators, the school bus drivers are serving as a valuable adjunct to proper law enforcement."

Vocabularies Found Limited In Test

Executives of large American corporations ranked ahead of college professors in a vocabulary test conducted recently by the human engineering labratory of Stevens Institute of Technology in a report of the research organization.

In fact, the business executives ranked ahead of any other group in so far as English vocabulary was concerned. The director of the research announced:

"Vocabulary is of the greatest importance in distinguishing executive rank among company employes we have studied. More than any single characteristic, it determines the executive position reached by a man or woman."

Shop foremen of the non-college graduate class score about as high in the vocabulary tests as the college and high school graduates, it was stated. It was also brought out that boys and girls in school should learn that their work is not artificial and unrelated to the outside world, but that a student who launches forth with a rich vocabulary at his command will likely find himself a successful worker in the field of life.

to be due from the city for repairs to a storm sewer at Mission and Vale streets. The matter was referred to the city engineer to confer with claimants in an effort to adjust the difference existing.

D. M. Johnston, 6238 Mission street, asked that his signature be removed from a petition he signed to install certain lights on Mission street. It was stated the council had no such authority, and that any protests should be formally made at the hearing to be held in this matter on Friday, December 3.

Councilman Cavagnero and Chief of Police Reardon made report of their attendance at the Sunnyvale meeting of the California League of Municipalities, at which the matter of civil service was discussed.

Considerable discussion developed regarding submitting of bills to plumbers in business in Daly City for sums due for delinquent permits. The clerk stated such bills had been furnished, but only for such jobs as had been reported to him as having been inspected by the plumbing inspector.

The city attorney was instructed to have prepared bonds of $300 denomination each to cover the issue of $3000 recently authorized by vote of the people for extension of the fire alarm system into the portion of Colma annexed to Daly City.

ACTION OF PLAY PROVES CRIME WILL NEVER PAY

Ordeals Suffered By Law Office Clerk Who Went Astray Demonstrates This Axiom

Justice punishes weakness, does not cure vice. This in effect is the message that John Galsworthy's stark drama, "Justice" delivered Wednesday night when the San Francisco Federal Theater Priject presented its first Galsworthy play before one of the largest audiences ever gathered in the Alcazar Theater.

The play is about a clerk in a law office who turned forger and the devious route of his destiny up to the last minute of his life. The horrifying ordeal of apprehension, trial, prison, release on parole, reinstatement in society, operation of stern English justice, complete frustration and death are presented as starkly as only a Galsworthy does those things. It is a play curiously fair and impartial, yet eloquent enough in the plea for those who have ears to hear and full of the poignant emotional appeal.

It is splendidly acted by the entire cast, a cast, by the way that calls for all men actors with one exception. Leon Forbes, as Falder the default-has earned $210,085—$168,642 of that amount this year.

"Do you think Seabiscuit could beat War Admiral," Howard was asked.

"Well, we tried for three months to get a match race, either for $25,000 or just a silver cup," he replied significantly.

"Seabiscuit missed a work before the Maryland race War Admiral won, or we would have run him then. The track conditions had kept him in the barn and upset his training schedule, and we wanted our horse right at his best when he was to meet War Admiral."

Howard put at rest Eastern dispatches saying that Seabiscuit would be retired to the stud in Kentucky.

"We don't plan to retire him yet, but when we do, it will be in California.

"Seabiscuit's arrival overshadowed the unloading of the other horses, that Fair Knightess, the best 4-year-old mare in America; Chanceview, the country's top mudder and Advocator a handicap star slipped in almost unobserved.

Other horses in the Howard shipment included Dressage, a fast 2-year old filly purchased from C. V. Scout Executive Present

We were favored with the presence of Raymond O. Hanson, Scout Executive of the San Francisco Area Council, of which Daly City is a part. He talked at length on his experiences at the National Jamboree at Washington, D. C. and in Holland this summer. His talk proved both interesting and entertaining. Mr. Hanson expressed himself as deeply impressed with the interest that both scouts and others are taking in our troop activities.

BIRTHDAY OF A GREAT PIONEER

In the hustle of Thanksgiving preparations it may have been forgotten that 224 years ago this week on November 24 California's first, and one of her greatest, pioneers was born—Junipero Serra.

Today we call a man able who can do one thing well. In Serra's time, when California's vast expanse was largely an unexplored wilderness peopled by savages, one had to do many things—and do them well! This Serra did.

Though frail of physique he tramped many hundreds of miles, educating, organizing, and building the first colonial outposts of the great territory that was to become the state of California. Those early settlements—a long chain of missions sweeping from San Diego to San Francisco—are now inseparably woven like a thread of gold in the story of California.

History sheds a glamorous light on the fiery, zealous figure of Serra, striding masterfully across mountains and valleys, instructing ignorant Indians, teaching them how to fashion adobe bricks and construct missions and presidios. We accept him for the successful pathfinder history rightly says he is.

But this week, in which his birthday falls, we can perhaps honor him best by remembering also that Serra's far-flung colonizing also brought him constantly against stiff-necked realities and incalculable hardships—little glamour in that job for him!

Yet in all his tasks he acquitted himself ably. California this week honors him for all the roles he fulfilled so well—as soldier, scholar, administrator, and first of her great pioneers!

THE FEELING IS IN THE AIR

There's no mistaking it—that certain spirit is in the air!

Up in the high Sierra freshly packed snow is hugging the boulder-strewn slopes. And in the valleys and along the coastal plain, where Mr. Snowman is seldom seen, Old Sol is shining these days with a merrier twinkle—as he should.

It's all because the Christmas season is practically here. Any day now you can expect to hear it rap vigorously on the door and, without waiting for an answer, move right in with us, bringing its fragrant green wreaths, its gay toyon berries and all the color and bustle that goes with the season.

Already the merchants have plentifully replenished and refurbished their stocks, forewarned that this may be one of the busiest seasons in years, and particularly so in California, where prices are lower than in many other parts of the country.

That is not due to Christmas magic, however. Judging from a recent bulletin on living costs—we'd call it a bulletin of California Christmas cheer—issued by the Department of Labor, California's lower prices are due to the common sense of shoppers, citizens, et al., who turned down a special tax against retail outlets.

QUEEN ORANGE STILL RULES!

California's orange is still mightier than the apple, speaking in terms of diets and vitamins. You can take the word of scientists of Idaho, Montana, Washington, Oregon and Utah. They've proved it so.

Dean Harrison, of Washington State College of Home Economics, reported the other day that a croup of Pacific Northwest dieticians have been studying the apple's innards, hoping to find it wealthier in vitamins than the orange. So far, no luck! The orange had a richer store of vitamins A and C, those sturdy body builders, than the apple. Queen Orange still holds her throne!

NOTES ON OUR ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

Exhibit At Parent Teachers Meeting

Mrs. Jensen, head of the Department of Education of the 17th district of the Congress of Parents & Teachers was enthusiastic over the excellent choice of material which Mrs. Hollingsworth, art chairman, exhibited at the district meeting in Burlingame. Through the courtesy of Mrs. Barker and Mr. Wiesenberger "La Casa Teresita" the miniature garden and the silver cup won at the recent San Mateo County Floral Fiesta, was sent to the meeting. This garden, constructed and planned by students of the Woodrow Wilson Elementary School together with craft activities and art work also from this school won much favorable comment throughout the county. As the group sang the P. T. A. song large individual placards made and ingeniously illustrated by students of this school and bearing the respective lines of the song were flashed before the group. This art and craft exhibit was done under the expert instruction and guidance of the art supervisor, Mrs. Corral. Miss Tobias is principal of the school.

Eighth Grade Visits Best Foods Factory

A most interesting and instructive afternoon by the eighth grade of Woodrow Wilson Elementary School. In charge of their teacher Miss Tobias, the group spent the afternoon in a conducted tour of the Best Foods plant in San Francisco. Having divided the students into two groups, they were lead into a room where six large vats of skim milk were being re-pasteurized and cultured to develop the desired flavor. These tanks were heated to 160 degrees. In other large tanks the vegetable oils were stored. This refined wholesome American vegetable fat is churned in the specially ripened skim milk. The finished product makes a nutritious table product, sold under the trade name of Nucoa. This finished product is cut in one and two pound squares, wrapped, boxed and color squares sealed under the parchment-wrapper by electrically driven machines.

Various pipes through which eggs broken right from their shells, carefully aged cider vinegar mixed with choicest spices and oil flow into large circular bowls in which a metal mixer automatically beats these ingredients into a delicious mayonnaise. The finished product is then put in jars, labeled and sealed.

The significant point in the entire process of Best Foods products lies in the precaution taken to insure sanitation and the rigid laboratory control from the raw material to the finished products which is maintained in every stage of manufacture to insure uniformity.

Seventh Graders On Newspaper Visit

The high seventh and low eighth grades of the Woodrow Wilson Elementary School accompanied by their teacher Miss Vireno visited the Scripps-Howard newspaper plant last Friday.

The children listened with intense interest as they were told how the news came into the office from far away states on teletype paper. They observed the teletype machine that was at the very moment registering news from Kansas City. This paper was sent to the copy desk where it was read and then relayed to the composing room.

In the editorial room there were filed among the many desks occupied by editorial writers innumerable large books compiled with newspapers since the first day the newspaper plant operated.

With the compliments of the Scripps-Howard newspaper plant each child was presented a final issue of the day. They were very thrilled to receive the newspaper coming hot from the press.

The children returned home much enlightened in the innumerable and various steps necessary to prepare a newspaper.

SWISS STEAK WITH MUSHROOM SOUP

(From Mrs. A. Vireno)

Round steak
Flour
Salt and pepper
1 or 2 cans mushroom soup

Cut steak to size of frying pan or Dutch oven. Meat should be about 1½ inches thick. Rub both sides with flour and pound it into the steak with the edge of a saucer or some dull instrument. Pound in as much flour as the meat will take and then brown on both sides in hot fat in the frying pan. Season with the salt and pepper and over the hot meat pour a can or two of mushroom soup. Cover tightly and simmer on top of the stove until tender or place in oven at low temperature until tender. A long, slow cooking is better than quick heat and will take 1½ to 2 hours of cooking. If gravy evaporates too much, add a little water or more soup.

STEAK, MUSHROOMS AND OYSTERS

(From Mrs. Winnie Frizelle)

Make a pocket in a thick steak. Put into this pocket the following mixture:

1 cup mushrooms
1 cup eastern oysters
Butter
Salt and pepper

Fasten with tooth picks or sew. Broil 7 minutes on each side. Serve with butter, salt and pepper.

SAUERKRAUT BEEF ROLL

(From Mrs. E. Cavagnaro)

2 or 3 pounds of round steak
Salt and pepper
Thin slices of bacon
Sauerkraut
Slices of lemon

Cut steak ¾ inch thick. Sprinkle salt and pepper over it. Cover with thick slices of bacon. Place as much kraut on this as possible and roll up and fasten with skewers. Put in covered roasting pan with a pint of water and bake 1 hour in a moderate oven. Then thicken the liquid with flour. Garnish with lemon slices.

BROILED STEAK WITH CURRANT SAUCE

(From Mrs. A. Vireno)

1 tender, juicy sirloin steak 1 inch thick

Place steak over hot coals or under broiler flame. Sear quickly. Add salt, pepper. Turn and sear opposite side and season. After steak has been carefully seared, reduce heat and cook slowly until done. Remove from broiler. Add butter and serve piping hot.

Sauce

2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 cup currant jelly

Heat currant jelly until melted, then add Worcestershire sauce and mix thoroughly. Pour over cooked steak and serve at once.

HAMBURGER SHORTCAKES

(From Mrs. Amelia Lewis)

2 pounds hamburger
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon celery salt
Shortening
12 slices onion
6 slices rye brad, toasted
2-3 cup chili sauce
1-3 cup sliced stuffed green olives

Mix hamburger thoroughly with tomato catsup and seasonings. Form into 12 flat patties about 4 inches in diameter and ¼ inch thick. Fry slowly in hot shortening until brown on both sides, turning only once. At the same time, fry onion slices until tender and slightly browned. To serve, place 6 hamburger patties on the toasted bread. Cover with fried onions, chili sauce and olives. Top with remaining 6 hamburger patties. Garnish with mustard pickles on tomato slices. Makes 6 shortcakes.

TEXANS' HASH

(From Ruth Lindorff)

2 large onions, sliced
2 green peppers, cut fine
3 tablespoons shortening
1 pound hamburg
2 cups canned tomatoes
½ cup uncooked rice
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cook onions and green peppers slowly in shortening until onions are yellow. Add hamburger and saute until the mixture falls apart. Add tomatoes, rice and seasonings. Arrange in large casserole, cover and bake in moderately hot oven, 45 minutes or until done. Serves 8.

CREAMED DRIED BEEF ON TOAST

(From Mrs. Maude L. Pitschke)

½ pound dried beef
2 cups milk
2 level tablespoons cornstarch
Milk to moisten cornstarch
Butter size of walnut

Heat frying pan. Melt butter and to it add the dried beef, which has been broken up into small pieces. Saute in butter over hot fire until slightly browned. Add milk and when boiling hot add the cornstarch mixture. Serve with hot buttered toast.

If a thinner gravy is desired add more milk to thin it.

OBSERVATION OF VARIOUS THINGS IN OUR CAPITAL

Writer Reviews Rules On Restoration Of Lost Or Stolen Bonds Issued By Federal Government

(By Hart Goodrich)

Leave your Liberty loans and other government bonds at home when you fare forth to milk the cows! If one investor had done this he would have saved the surrenders section of the Division of Loans and Currency of the United States Treasury a great deal of time and effort—but that is their business.

A farmer in the Northwest was feeding his calves and his wallet was stuffed into his back pocket. In that pocket book he carried certain bonds. As he moved about his labors the wallet fell, unseen, into the calves feed trough. On discovery of his loss, a short time later, he found one calf serenely chewing a strange, tough cud. The agitated farmer retrieved as much of the mess as he could persuade the animal to give up, packed it carefully in cotton wool and sent it on to the claims section of the Division of Loans and Currency. Analysis proved the farmer really had lost his bonds in this way and others were issued to him.

Cases that have been established by such analysis are pretty nearly miraculous, in the eyes of the layman.

Suppose the old homestead burned down. All you have to do is collect the bonds that are tucked back of the third brick in the chimney, put them in a little box, wrapped in cotton wool, and ship them to Washington. Sometimes the packages received contain the most minute fragments, sometimes strange and messy lumps, sometimes only ashes; but by the wizardry of science they can be identified as your bonds.

So many painful experiences could have been avoided had Mr. and Mrs. American Citizen known more about the rules governing bonds. In the first place, experts tells us we should become more familiar with our bonds if we wish to guard against the loss of them. And remember that a coupon bond title passes by delivery (or theft) just as does the title to a twenty dollar bill with which you pay the furniture installments.

We are told that we should register our bonds. It doesn't cost anything beyond a 3-cent stamp, and it's an entirely painless process. Send your bond to the Division of Loans and Currency, accompanied by a letter of instructions. If it is a coupon bond, be sure to register the letter (or package, if you have that many) and have it insured before mailing. And, another thing—don't be afraid to give up your bond!

Certain bright individuals have, from time to time, conceived the idea of sending in photographs instead, assuring Uncle Sam they were keeping the originals just to be sure. Not one of these careful owners probably knew that he had committed a crime in thus photographing an "obligation or other security" for which he could be put behind the bars for a little 15 year term and cost him $5000 to boot.

Remember not to ask the government to register a minor as the owner of a bond. The name of the guardian should be supplied instead. And when a husband and wife own a bond jointly, they should be registered "John Smith and Mary Smith," not "John and Mary Smith." And John needn't think he can get away with assigning the family bond without Mary's knowledge. "All persons named," says the government, "must unite in assignment if living." If you expect to put anything over on the wife, buy savings bonds instead of Treasury bonds—they recognize either party.

Know your bonds! This may save you time and money at some future date.

GINGER KNOWN IN CHINA FOR REMOTE TIME

World Knew About Mustard Many Years Before Its Use Became General

Ginger was known in China at a very remote time and was called gingi. It was also known in India. Although it is extensively cultivated now in both these countries, what is considered the best quality comes from Jamaica.

Ginger constituted an important item of commerce between Europe and the East during the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, and was considered next in value to pepper. Pliny describes the ginger plant and Marco Polo tells of seeing it in his travels in India and China about 1280. Just when or how it was first introduced to the West Indies is not known, but as early as 1547 large quantities were being sent to Spain from Jamaica.

The ginger plant is a peculiar, perennial, reed-like plant somewhat resembling our iris. The branches, or races of the rootstocks are branched, flat and pale yellow in color.

What is known as white ginger is obtained from the core or marrow of the Jamaica variety. When the roots are scraped before they are dried, the product is called "uncoated ginger." When the outer epidermis is left on, it is known as "coated ginger."

MUSTARD

Mustard is the one spice plant with which most every gardener is familiar and which can be cultivated in nearly every country on the globe. While there are a number of species there are only two varieties in common use—black and white.

The industry of American nurserymen and farmers has had a great influence on the development of black mustard and the United States now ranks very high in the production and quality of this product. The California and Kentucky black mustard is considered much sweeter and better than any foreign mustard.

Like the beggar sitting on the bag of gold, the world was acquainted with mustard for several thousand years before the art of grinding the seeds into a savory powder was discovered. The leaves were used as greens and the whole seeds often went to make some dish more savory but is wasn't until a Mrs. Clements, who lived in Durham, England in the eighteenth century, experimented with a crude hand mill that powdered mustard seed came to be used as a table condiment.

She ground the seeds and then put the powder through a fine sieve to remove the bran. The instant popularity of dry mustard brought her into the spotlight and she apparently went into the mustard-grinding business, preparing the condiment for King George and other court notables. She kept the process of grinding a secret, though, for a good many years.

Dry mustard is really just the flour or farina of the seed. In present day manufacture the seeds are first crushed and the oil removed. This oil is extensively used as a salad oil. The remaining mustard cake is dried, then powdered and sifted through silk sieves. What is left from the final sifting is known as mustard dressing.

French mustard is the crushed seed combined with vinegar, garlic and other seasonings. It contains all the various properties of the whole mustard seed—flour, bran and oil.

Tot Has Party

Mary Ruth Frazier of Hanover street was hostess, Friday of last week, at a party in honor of her sixth birthday. About 30 guests enjoyed a merry afternoon playing indoor games.

New Method For Carrying Clothing

In making a recent motor trip, we found that our best clothing (dress suits, dresses, etc.) were safely brought to our destination without wrinkling, by keeping them on coat and trouser hangers, inserting them in large paper bags (such as are received from cleaners), and hanging them on rubber suction cups stuck on the bottom of rear windows of the car, leaving the lower parts draped over suitcases on the rear seats.

Using this method, we found it unnecessary to have any of this clothing pressed after unpacking.—E. C. B., Milwaukee.

'Moving Mountain' Perils Los Angeles Valley Dwellers

New deep fissures appeared recently on the crest of a hill overlooking Elysian Park, a Los Angeles residential district, and, according to geologists, is widening at a rate of one-eighth of an inch an hour. A 500,000 ton segment of earth threatens to crash down a 400 foot escarpment on the edge of the district, imperiling many residents in the nearby vicinity. Authorities believe the "moving mountain" may have been started by water seepage from Elysian Park Reservoir. Photo shows officials examining the widening fissure, which began to open October 28.

Failure To Signal Cause Of Accidents

Among the various causes of traffic accidents, one that stands high on the list is widespread neglect among motorists to give proper hand signals when planning to stop or make a turn.

Too many motorists, it is said, operate their cars as if other motorists were mind readers, with ability to foretell when the driver of the automobile ahead intends to stop or change the direction of travel.

While available figures indicate that failure to give signals or improper signaling are responsible for a great number of accidents, it is necessary only to observe daily driving habits to note the lack of signaling. The "I did" and "you didn't" argument with reference to hand signals is a familiar one on the highways and in the court rooms.

Taught Them Most Needful Things

"Aunty," said a gentleman who had just learned that the youngest son of his colored cook had been appointed stenographer to a large manufacturer, "tell me how you have brought up your children so that each one of them has become so good and useful a man?"

"Oh, honey," was the reply, "that's nothing. I had no education, and I could only teach them three things—just three things I taught 'em: their prayers, and their manners, and to work."—Unidentified.

CHECK LIGHTS FOR SANE AND SAFE DRIVING

Earlier dusk and nightfall as days become shorter should be a warning to motorists to check car lights, it is declared.

Since darkness multiplies the chance of accident as compared with daylight driving, according to the records, motorists should have headlights properly adjusted, be sure that tail lights are bright and lenses are clean and comply with all other requirements of law regarding automobile lighting equipment.

Attention is called to a new state law which makes mandatory the use of the passing or "courtesy" beams if the car is so equipped. Such use previously was voluntary. The rule now requires lights to be dimmed when approaching within 500 feet of an oncoming car.

Glaring headlights are prohibited. A test to determine when lights are glaring, according to the Vehicle Code, is as follows: A lamp is deemed to be glaring if any part of the main bright portion of the beam strikes an object higher than the lamp centers 25 feet or more ahead of the vehicle. In no event shall the main portion be higher than 42 inches at a distance of 75 feet ahead of the vehicle.

Head lamps or tail lights need not be displayed when a car is standing in a business or residence district, provided a right hand wheel is within 12 inches of the curb or right side of the street or highway, and also if there is sufficient light to reveal a vehicle at a distance of 200 feet. Outside of such districts, however, a car parked or standing on a highway must display a red tail light.

Automobile Driving Taught In School

A traffic safety and automobile driving class is being conducted at the Herbert Hoover Junior High School in San Jose under direction of L. T. Clohan. Two classes composed of 60 boys and girls are being taught fundamentals of driving, and will study the California vehicle code.

Some study of automotives will be taken up, including energy of a car in motion, stopping distance, reaction time and its significance, and principles of the internal combustion engine.

A garage and work room are under construction on the school grounds to house the chassis of a car so Mr. Clohan may describe the mechanics of an automobile. A complete car will be purchased later to instruct students in driving.

The school is said to be the first school of its type in California to inaugurate a driving class. Training children in principles of traffic safety and careful driving will reduce traffic mishaps in the future, it is pointed out.

Try This Warning Passing Livestock

A suggestion is made that when passing livestock on the road you try disengaging the clutch and speeding up the motor intermittently instead of sounding the horn.

Sounding the horn tends to startle animals and cause them to stand still, but the gentler, steadier noise of a motor usually will cause them to move promptly out of the path of a car, it has been found.

ROLL CALL HAS ACCOMPLISHED BIG INCREASE

Red Cross Manager Urges Greater Effort In Highway First Aid Work—Half Million Members Enroll In Pacific Area

At the time he called upon every Red Cross unit, every Red Cross supporter, to concentrate their efforts during the next two months on the establishment of more Highway Emergency First Aid stations. He stated:

"National statistics show a 9 per cent increase in automobile fatalities during the first nine months of the year; 28,140 against 25,710 a year ago. Prevention of this tremendous loss calls for a greater effort on the part of every individual who can lend assistance.

"The Red Cross has established 338 fixed stations and 113 mobile units in the Pacific Area, all operated by volunteers. Nationally there are 1990 fixed stations and 1175 mobile units. Some of these volunteer first aiders have saved lives of auto crash victims, others have greatly alleviated suffering of injured persons. A good start has been made, but more stations and more workers are required."

It is announced that special and general field representatives throughout the Pacific Area during the next two months will give help to some 175 Red Cross units which have not yet reported the establishment and maintenance of highway emergency first aid stations. The latest compilation covering fixed highway emergency first aid stations shows Arizona, 11; California, 113; Idaho, 28; Nevada, 10; Oregon, 66; Utah, 32; Washington, 78.

Of the 113 mobile highway first aid units, California has 54; Utah 6 and Washington 53.

In announcing the distribution of these funds, Manager Bailey stated that checks will reach growers in ample time to meet payment of fall taxes.

He also stated that while the 1937 crop of almonds was the largest ever produced in California, it is expected that it will move into consumption well in advance of next harvest season.

equipment. Competitive rifle matches are held at local rifle ranges.

The members, who are preferably radio amateurs or others in the industry, have the distinction of using special "Navy" radio call letters while operating their stations in this work, and enjoy other radio privileges, such as use of Naval operating procedure and distinctive frequencies.

Advancement in ratings and rank, of course, is commensurate with ability, but the nature of the training is such that many of our leading figures in communcations today, have attained their present position in the industry as a result of their start earlier in life in this interesting field.

Attendance at meetings, air drills and summer cruises is entirely voluntary and should not interfere with the daily routine of the members.

An open meeting of the Naval Communication Reserve, wil be held at the American Legion Hall, on San Mateo avenue, San Bruno, at 8 o'clock Friday night, November 19th. Interesting moving pictures will be shown. Navy and Naval Reserve officers of high rank, Civic leaders and American Legion speakers will be presented.
